

Molina Launches Innovative TPA Provider in Utah Market

December 4, 2000

(SALT LAKE CITY, UT) Molina Advantage, a third-party administration (TPA) provider that assists employers in self-funding their health benefit plans announced its entry into the Utah market.

"Molina Advantage provides top quality service and medical management to our clients," says Kirk Olsen, CEO. Brian Monsen, Marketing Director adds, "We are eager to establish our presence in Utah and we look forward to developing close relationships with the broker community."

Molina Advantage offers customized, self-funded, and partially self-funded benefit plans rather than providing a standard "cookie-cutter" package of benefits. According to Stephanie Cutler, Director of Third Party Administration, "Molina Advantage is committed to providing fast and efficient claims payment service, a variety of quality managed care services and plan flexibility that allows our clientele to effortlessly customize benefit plans."

Molina Advantage is owned and operated by Molina Healthcare, Inc., a Long Beach-based, national healthcare company with subsidiaries in California, Washington and Utah and an affiliate in Michigan. Molina Healthcare, Inc. provides healthcare for publicly funded and other specialized programs to families and children, and offers a commercial health plan in California.
